It is unprofessional and not serious to compare a woman's mental abilities with a man's mental abilities and draw some conclusions about both based on this comparison. We can do it, but it doesn't give us anything, a man with his own unique qualities becomes a man and a woman a woman. Consequently, when women say that they are stupid than men, pointing out that there are very few geniuses among women who have made a name for themselves in history, comparing a washing machine to a computer makes the computer appear smarter. Men and women are created for different purposes, you know? It is not correct to compare them with each other. A man, no matter how great, cannot have a child and continue humanity, he has not even learned to clone men or how to do without women. But a woman gives life to this world, not without the help of a man, of course, but she gives birth to a child, and if she is a real woman, she also raises her child properly. So in this world, men do their job, and women do their job, and they, I repeat, complement each other. Nature has its own goals for men and women. Well, we can disrupt or improve our lives the way we want, we can fight for equality, we can distribute responsibilities among ourselves, and we can develop different rules for women and men - it's our own game. And nature, through instincts, still demands from us what it needs, for which it created us, and then from us.

Women's psychology is primarily about emotionality and sexuality. There are also qualities such as pride and incompatibility. Through emotions, the female representative perceives the world. Everything that happens around is perceived more sharply than men. In the event of a conflict, the spouse or boyfriend should take responsibility. They always want to show that they can solve all the problems themselves (that's how pride manifests itself). If the situation stops, this is where the confrontation begins.

If you read the psychology of women on the Internet, then the most popular secret of the female half of the world is that they always love to gossip. This is because women are very emotional, so they need to share energy with other people. It is important for them to talk about their experiences, to share their thoughts. That is why women strive for consent and support among their loved ones. Women often use manipulative methods to achieve their goals. This behavior goes through the female line. Women representatives try not to express their wishes openly, they build a chain of events in such a way that other people want to act voluntarily. In particular, often manipulations are used in daily life. Another secret of female psychology is that women are constantly monitoring their appearance. They rejoice in the astonishing glances of other people. They want men to appreciate their clothes and shape. For praise, they are willing to wear intricate hairstyles and uncomfortable shoes.

If you read psychology online, you can understand that women's thoughts and their behavior are presented to men as a whole scientific knowledge. Understanding the psychological aspects provides harmony in future relationships. Women need more attention than men. That's why they love to receive gifts and listen to compliments at their addresses. Girls love mainly by hearing, for them the male voice, its intonation and the words that come out of the mouth of the lover are important. In the behavior of female representatives, they are often driven by an emotional component. Some of their actions may contradict the logical explanation. Here a fine line emerges in the relationship - complete submission to the woman and her whims or showing her will and character. On the one hand, girls don't like rebellious people, on the other hand, they demand to be heard, and also believe that they are right in all situations.
